ENGINEER PAY IS RELEASED BY COUNTY ORDER

Prosecutor Stouffer Authorizes Payment of Current Wages

AWAIT DECISION ON BACK SALARY

Court Ruling On Ballot Issue Also Expected Soon

LISBON, Feb. 26.—In an opinion rendered Friday afternoon, Prosecutor Karl Stouffer held that County Auditor John Irwin could pay current salaries of County Engineer Lloyd Kirk and the latter's employees.

The opinion followed a request by Irwin seeking clarification of the point. It read in part: "... as to the current salary of county engineer by reason of having been inducted into office by mandate of the supreme court and as long as he is in the chair by proper authority he and his appointees are entitled to salary."

Several Opinions Awaited
The opinion is one of several awaited in connection with the extended legal fight waged by Kirk to unseat Robert S. Wheatley, former engineer, on quo warranto proceedings. Kirk recently assumed the office when the state supreme court upheld a ruling of the appellate court declaring Wheatley improperly qualified for the post.

The board of elections recently requested an opinion from the prosecutor regarding the length of time Kirk may hold office under the court's mandate. The board asked if the issue may be placed on the ballot next November as a county contest. The request hinges on the court's statement that Kirk "would serve until his successor is elected and qualified," some interpretations indicate that Kirk is entitled to serve Wheatley's entire unexpired term, which would place the contest on the ballot in November, 1940.

May Permit Vote In Fall
Stouffer is awaiting a ruling from Attorney General Herbert S. Duffy on this point. At a conference Monday with attaches of the state office it was indicated that the final ruling would permit the board to authorize the election next fall.

The question of the engineer's pay held in escrow by the county auditor since last August also hangs in the balance. Irwin has declined to issue the back salary, totaling over $2,000, to either Kirk or Wheatley without court authorization. This authorization, it has been indicated, would be in the form of a writ of mandamus or a civil action brought by either or both parties.

North Jackson Man
Held In Collision

Roy Cramer, 43, of North Jackson, was jailed by state highway patrolmen last night on a charge of driving while intoxicated, following an accident in Canfield. He will be given a hearing before Mayor Wilson at Canfield sometime today.

Cramer's car collided with another operated by Richard Obenauf, 45, of Berlin Center. No one was injured.

Robert Noble, driver of the car in which Doris Shrader, 14, of Berlin Center, was injured a week ago, was a passenger in Obenauf's car.

Townsend to Fight Jail Term

Dr. Townsend, right, with newsmen

In Washington where he had come to serve a 30-day jail sentence for contempt of a congressional committee, Dr. Francis E. Townsend, 71-year-old leader of the Townsend pension movement, changes his mind. He is seen telling reporters he will appeal the case to the U. S. supreme court. Dr. Townsend walked out on a congressional investigation in 1936.

NO POSTOFFICE,
LISBON IS TOLD

No Funds Allocated To Village, Mayor Rauch Is Informed

LISBON, Feb. 26.—This village's long nurtured hopes for a new post office were shattered Friday in a letter from Congressman Lawrence Imhoff to Mayor G. Cecil Rauch stating definitely that no funds for this purpose had been allocated Lisbon.

Tightened purse strings and the fact that Congressmen are no longer "all-powerful" in selecting post office sites, were ascribed as reasons for the collapse of the plan. The majority of sites, according to Imhoff, are now selected by the post office department.

The congressman stated that as far as he had been able to determine the post office department never had plans for a new federal building here. Postal authorities told him, he said, they knew nothing of the proposal.

The letter followed rumors stating a government official had been in Lisbon recently looking over prospective locations.

HOLLYWOOD, Feb. 26.—The financial difficulties between Allen Whitney and his movie dancing daughter, Eleanore Whitney, 20, have been amicably adjusted, she said today, and he will dismiss his suit against her for $25 a week allowance.

The actress said she was out of town when the suit was filed and "it was all a misunderstanding." She did not disclose terms of their agreement.

Whitney said when she filed the suit he had only 75 cents cash. The Whitneys have been divorced for sometime and Eleanore has supported her mother and her sister, Ruth, 17, since she became a stage dancer at the age of 10.

Jewel Appointed
As WPA Engineer

LISBON, Feb. 26.—Kenneth Jewel of Salem has been assigned to Columbia county as a project engineer. WPA authorities announced Friday.

Jewel, former Carroll county engineer, was transferred to his new territory this week. He will act as a supervisor on county-wide projects and is an addition to the staff rather than a replacement.

County relief authorities have been distributing supply orders and summary sheets to subdivision officials this week preparatory to opening the county's new relief set-up. John Orr of Wellsville has been appointed an accountant to aid Norman J. Hirt, state auditor's representative.

Although expected this week no money for relief purposes has been received to date from the state.

LIQUOR BRANCH

Have Only 2 More Days In Which to Complete Investigations

EYES CENTERED ON WAREHOUSES

Facts On Operations of Cincinnati Firm Are Sought

(By Associated Press)

COLUMBUS, Feb. 26.—With only two more days in which to complete its inquiry into alleged graft in the state government, the senate investigating committee today concentrated again on the liquor department.

The investigators sought to determine the corporate, financial and operating setup of Franklin Warehouses, Inc., which their counsel, James Metzbaum, said had a contract to handle 80 per cent of the state liquor warehousing.

Changes On Dec. 1, 1936

He showed that the Cincinnati warehouse originally was authorized on March 1, 1934, to handle all the state liquor warehousing, but that Franklin stepped in on Dec. 1, 1936, and took over all the warehousing except that in the Cincinnati district.

Franklin also took over all obligations which Cincinnati terminal had with warehouses in Cleveland, Columbus, Toledo and Canton, Metzbaum said.

President of Franklin is G. R. (Pete) Stinchcomb, who in the summer of 1934 was an $85-a-month employee in the liquor department.

Senator Verner E. Metcalf, attorney-member of the committee, said they wanted to learn if Franklin actually owned any warehouses.

The committee showed Thursday that Shaw Transport, Inc., although it owned no equipment, received a contract for hauling all liquor from warehouses to state stores. This was done through a sub-contract with U. S. Truck Lines Inc.

Several members of the committee meanwhile were hopeful that the "special session" of the legislature would be continued beyond next Monday, which would enable the investigators to keep on with their inquiry. Atty. Gen. Herbert S. Duffy

All Roads Open But Driving Is Described As Hazardous

Snow ranging in depth from one to four inches blanketed Salem and most of Ohio today and made automobile driving hazardous.

The state highway patrol reported all roads open, but described most thoroughfares as "very slippery." Plows were being used to remove heavy snowfalls in the vicinity of Findlay and Massillon and all curves were being sanded, the patrol said.

Temperatures ranged from 28 above at Youngstown to 35 at Toledo, and the weather bureau said there would be little change in temperature Sunday.

Fog and light rain were reported at Dayton and Cincinnati.

New Chieftain Of British Foreign Office
Amazingly Unlike Captain Anthony Eden

Viscount Halifax, Member of Yorkshire's Most Important Family, Is Conservative of Chamberlain Pattern

LONDON.—The new chief of the British foreign office, the Rt. Hon. Sir Edward Frederick Lindley Wood, Baron Irwin, Viscount Halifax, presents an amazing contrast to Capt. Anthony Eden, the man he succeeds. Captain Eden, youthful man-of-action, captured the imagination of the British people by his handsome features, stylish dress, and by his flare for dramatic oratory. Long leader of the ultra-conservative pro-German bloc in England, Halifax, as lord president of the cabinet council, was almost overshadowed by Eden's brilliance.

Of Chamberlain Pattern
Tall, reedy, gentle and devoutly Catholic, Halifax enjoys the full support of Prime Minister Neville Chamberlain. Both are regarded as stiff conservatives. Both favor making trade agreements with Germany and Italy.

Coming from Yorkshire's most important family, the new chief of the foreign department was educated at Eton and Oxford, and entered parliament in 1910. In 1921 he was named under-secretary for the colonies and later he became viceroy of India. He caused a sensation in 1936 when he told his peers that the "era of German grievances must be closed."

Sent to Berlin
It was not until three months ago that Halifax gained the public spotlight. Then, in connection with the Conservative party's policy of co-operation with Germany, he was sent by Chamberlain to Berlin to open negotiations with Hitler.

Secretary Eden, denouncing the trip, firmly stated his opposition toward dealings with "immoral" Fascist nations. Recently, simultaneous with his resignation, Captain Eden reaffirmed his convictions regarding Hitler and Mussolini.

"If we are to have peace in these times, it means that in any agreements we make today there must be no sacrifice of principles and no shrinking of responsibilities merely to obtain quick results that may not be permanent," the embittered Eden spoke.

Britons, while still loyal to the "liberalism" of the retiring secretary, know that as a compromiser his successor has no peer. They hope that he will bridge the gap created by Eden's resignation and stabilize the nation's foreign relations.

Escaped Bomb In India
Halifax, at 57, has held the posts of president of the national board of education and minister of agriculture in addition to his colonial duties. While in India he escaped miraculously when a native threw a bomb under his train.

A keen huntsman, he was originally invited to Berlin by Gen. Hermann Wilhelm Goering to inspect a Nazi hunting exhibition. While the whole world awaited with anxiety news of his chat with Hitler, he insisted on describing the mission as "a hunting and exploring trip."

After conferring with Hitler, Goering and Goebbels, Halifax returned to London, where reporters were not surprised to hear him say, "Now that the door has been opened, it will remain open."

Darke County Board of Education Calls More Witnesses In Misconduct Hearing

GREENVILLE, Feb. 26.—The Darke county board of education called additional witnesses today at a public hearing at which charges of misconduct against School Supt. Harry S. Rees are being aired.

The hearing opened last night but the board adjourned sessions after hearing 12 witnesses, 11 of whom testified for the board.

Rees' counsel summoned only Floyd Ritener of near Kingston in Ross county where Rees was superintendent of schools before taking his present post. Ritener was a member of the school board there. Another witness was Victor Brunt of Athens, formerly of Chillicothe, who taught in Ross county from 1933 to 1935.

Enraged Reader In New York Library Attacks Engineer, Fracturing Skull

NEW YORK, Feb. 26.—Surgeons performed an emergency operation today in an attempt to save the life of a 32-year-old engineer, victim of an enraged hatchet-wielder reading in the New York public library.

The assailant, booked as Charles Frankel, 32, suddenly used a 14-inch hatchet to hack at John C. Abbott, whom he had followed into a corridor after a quarrel in the economics reading room.

He cut Abbott across the head three times while his victim begged "Please don't do it!" and other readers screamed, helpless to aid.

Closely pursued, Frankel ran toward the library exit, where he was tackled and overpowered by Edward Keenan, a guard. Police said Frankel, who told them he was an unemployed construction worker, was the hatchet strapped to his wrist and also carried a pair of scissors and a knife.

Abbott was taken to Bellevue hospital suffering from multiple skull fractures. His parents, Dr. and Mrs. W. J. Abbott, flew from Cleveland to be at his bedside.

New Ohio automobile tags, to go on sale March 1, were received here today by the Columbiana County Motor club office and Charles Cavanaugh, deputy registrar.

Cavanaugh, located on S. Ellsworth ave., takes over the agency handled last year by O. J. Astry.

Although the licenses will go on sale March 1 they cannot be used before March 10, it is explained. However, the new tags must be on cars by midnight, March 31.

The licenses show black numerals against a white background and also picture at the bottom of the plate a covered wagon and inscription concerning the 150th anniversary of the Northwest Territory.

$10,250 Suit Filed
In Auto Collision

LISBON, Feb. 25.—Permanent injuries received in an auto accident were listed as causes for action in a $10,250 damage suit filed Friday by Duane Parks, Salem, against R. H. Fortune of the same city.

Parks states he was hurt Dec. 11, 1937, when he drove his car from a side road to the Salem-Damascus highway. He states he stopped his machine at the intersection and then proceeded across the line marking the center of the road when a car driven by the defendant collided with his.

Parks says he was rendered unconscious and sustained injuries of a permanent nature. He asks $10,000 personal damages and $250 for damages to his car.

Predicts Failure In Dealing With Germany And Italy

BUT EXPRESSES
HOPE OF SUCCESS

Pledges No Efforts Toward Upsetting National Cabinet

(By Associated Press)

LONDON, Feb. 26.—Prime Minister Chamberlain's task of knitting Europe into a peaceful community of nations shook itself free from immediate domestic opposition today.

The departing Foreign Secretary Anthony Eden's graceful self-effacement to "await the verdict of history" removed the threat of conservative party strife over the cabinet crisis which jolted Britain into sudden decision to play ball with Europe's dictators.

Eden Predicts Failure

Eden, predicting failure in dealing with Germany and Italy, nevertheless wished the conservative government well in its task and made clear he would give no aid to liberal and labor party hopes of overthrowing the national cabinet.

Eden quit rather than yield to what he considered pressure from Italy in the Italian request that friendship bargaining begin at once, and in Rome, Chamberlain agreed to the bargaining rather than risk animosity which one day might bring war, and named Viscount Halifax as foreign secretary to speed the bargaining task.

Defends His Stand

Defending his stand last night, Eden spoke to his Warwickshire constituents thus: "The decision is made... the government must therefore go ahead... I most sincerely wish them success..."

With Eden out of the way there diminished the chances of a conservative party split and the path was cleared for Chamberlain to proceed toward a solution of English-Italian troubles.

This solution was expected then to lead to English-German friendship agreement, and to French-German and French-Italian appeasement.

French Debate Stand

France's part in any such understanding came before the French parliament in bitter debate, keyed by a rightist cry that the People's Front government led France to "financial, economic and political bankruptcy" both at home and abroad. The test was tonight's motion of confidence, asked by French Premier Chautemps.

Germany's part was linked with the fate of Austria, whether there should prevail the pledge of independence given by Chancellor Schuschnigg or the Nazi hope of German-Austrian union.

Austria's Premier Schuschnigg, warmly praising Italy's Mussolini, defied Nazi efforts to unite Germany and Austria. This led to reports in Vienna and belief in London that Italy had renewed pledges to support Austrian independence, and this support could aid Britain in efforts to block further German dominance of central Europe.

Berlin Nazis, angered by Schuschnigg's parliamentary speech of independence Thursday night, are urging his ouster.

OH, THE SHAME OF IT

While the rest of us sit comfortably in heated rooms, looking out the window every half hour to see whether it's raining or snowing—

And wondering whether there's coal enough in the cellar to keep the furnace cozy and warm for probably eight more weeks, maybe longer—

And feeling vigorous in the invigorating climate which makes this the most progressive zone on the face of the earth, even though there is a deficiency of sunshine vitamins—

The poor baseball players are tramping hither and yon under a blazing sky, getting all sunburned and sweaty in preparation for another season—and getting paid for it. It's a dirty shame. Sometimes it gets a fellow so upset he doesn't care if he never sees another ball game.

CALLING FOR BEARDS

The veil looks like the coming spring's strongest fashion impulse. Once more milliners are creating the glamor of the half-seen about the heads of their loveliest customers.

The interesting thing about veils is the way they accentuate loveliness when it's there, but must be used with caution when there's nothing much to accentuate—something every woman knows.

In the case of beards on men it's the other way around. A handsome man has nothing to gain from a beard but concealment, whereas a plain man with a full complement of whiskers can keep the world guessing as to what lies beneath.

If most of the beautiful women are going to resort to veils on their hats this spring, most of the homely men should raise beards. Otherwise, it will be more evident than ever that this is a country full of entrancing women and but sparsely equipped with handsome men.

CONSUMERS' COUNSEL

The bituminous coal commission's sudden decision to junk its minimum price structure leaves small consumers puzzled.

They can see why it would be unfair to continue a price structure already suspended in isolated cases.
Also understandable is the folly of trying to patch up a price structure already shot full of holes by the courts. It's better to start fresh.

But why did the commission, making a controversial foray into the field of price fixing, invite attack by failing to observe the letter of the law which created it? And why is it that an attack on the commission by consumers of coal in huge volume—a successful attack—should make it so painfully clear to consumers of coal in small volume that this is a fight between the commission and big consumers.
Their wish to buy coal at a price often less than its cost of production made price fixing seem desirable in the first place.

Little consumers are supposed to be represented on the commission by counsel, too. This would be an opportune moment for that counsel to assure his interested clients that he is looking after their interests.

WHITE MAN'S BURDEN

The era of western imitation began in Japan when foreign warships finally persuaded the emperor and his advisers with gunpowder and steel that the country should be opened to commerce. That was in 1864. It was 11 years earlier that Commodore Peary had thrown the Japanese into a panic by asking for a commercial treaty and returning the following year to get it. Commodore Peary fired no shots; he merely pointed his guns.

The Japanese caught on quickly, once they started.
They not only imitated westerners; they out-westerned them. They knew from experience that gunpowder and steel were the best persuaders on earth.
Naturally, when they decided to open China for commercial exploitation, they chose the same methods which had been used so successfully on them.
What else could they be expected to choose?

They anchored battleships off the cities and fired their big guns. They dropped bombs from airplanes, a persuader which didn't exist in 1864. They used propaganda. They greased palms. They tried to break down the Chinese government. They resented bitterly any criticism of their straightforward methods. They were imitating the western nations which brought light to them three quarters of a century ago.

But when the Chinese bombing planes drone their chant of death over Japan, as they have recently for the first time, that's not so good. The Japanese curse the inhumanity of such methods. They don't realize it, perhaps, but that's an essential part of the westernism they're so good at imitating. You must be able to beat the other fellow at his own game; if you play rough, he will play rough. The Japanese shouldn't complain too much about Chinese bombing expeditions over their cities. China has been exposed to westernism too.

THE STARS SAY:

For Sunday, February 27

Sunday's horoscope is a rather conflicting one, except for the affairs of church and clergy. Even these may have rather sudden visitations with surprise movements, change or journeys.

Those whose birthday it is may be prepared for a surprise change in the affairs, with strange persons or places influential in making decisions. But be careful as to confused issues, although it is safe to deal with superiors and those in authority, asking favors, advancement or other marks of preferment.

A child born on this day may be studious and serious, although fond of change, travel and unusual experiences. Its natural tendency to adventure, science and strange places and persons may wear it from attention to practical ways and means.

For Monday, February 28

Monday's astrological forecast is a very fortuitous one, with signs of much enterprise and initiative, and much determination to put over large projects and attain high goals. In this the support of powerful friends, corporations, secret societies or political organizations may be counted on.

Those whose birthday it is are assured a very enterprising year, with much progress, advancement and increase of finance and business prestige. There will be much friendly co-operation from large organizations in industry, finance, political, secret or social bodies, all with pleasant and profitable reaction on the private, social and possibly romantic affections.

A child born on this day may be efficient, enterprising, aggressive and ambitious, attracting the friendly support of those in very influential positions, either in politics, society, finance or big business.

O. O. MCINTYRE

NEW YORK DAY BY DAY

(EDITOR'S NOTE: The following "New York
Day by Day" column, by Oscar Odd McIntyre, was prepared by the famous New York writer and distributed prior to his death.)

NEW YORK, Feb. 26—Nothing ever startled most of us into those goofy questioning gazes, such as distinguish ZaSu Pitts and Ed Wynn, like the ladies' hats recently. The decades revealed queer millinery, but never has the art gone on such a cock-eyed binge.
Anything goes!

In one block we turn to see something that suggests a step-ladder reaching for the moon and discover it is Lillian Gish wearing something by Suzy. A little further along we may bump into lovely Lynn Pontanne with a misplaced pen-wiper dangling over a left eye.

We laugh, ho, ho, at fashion's modern furbelows.
Yet I wonder if any feminine head-dress is more outrageously hilarious than the old-fashioned sunbonnet, which we have sentimentalized in song, story and poem until it seems almost a pretty thing.
Seeing a face inside a sunbonnet was like peeking into a tunnel. Yet sunbonnet Sues swinging on the garden gate are a part of our sentimental lore. Today they are a bit funny, but not half as comical as the hats seen about The Colony at lunch time will be 20 years from now.

The change in mourning millinery, too, is worth a paragraphic twirl. Yesterday, for instance, I came upon a young woman recently bereaved. Her husband's passing ended a happy romance. Yet there was, sensibly enough, nothing in her dress and manner suggesting sorrow. One could not help but recall the good widows of other days. The tight-fitting black bonnet with mourning veil to heels, cumbersome, macabre, depressing. Often the only relief the rest of their lives was a touch of white edging to collars and cuffs after 20 years or so of epitomizing grief.

That reminds me that outside Joe Laurie, Jr. one never sees a cap save on the golf course or shipboard. Or perhaps Damon Runyon at the races. The gangster films knocked them into what might be called, paradoxically enough, a "cocked hat." The cap suggests talk out of the side of the mouth and that classic of underworld vulgarity: "What do you hear from the mob?" Caps—ps-s-s, like that!—went the way of the walking stick. There should be a revival.

But the most amusing style contraption of yesteryear was the steel-spring do-hickery that was slipped under the coat collars to keep them just so.
Freddie Cromley came home from Marietta College with one and Harry Frank's Sons, local clothiers, had a run on them until the white edging for vests was introduced by a city chap from Indianapolis who came there to organize a street railway concern. Then the raglan. The ultimate syllable in hanky-panky was the light tan cravatette rain coat with raglan sleeve. It was none other than Al Jolson who introduced it to our young bloods the year he appeared there as an end man with Al G. Fields. Or maybe it was with Neil O'Brien or Lassies White.

public interest has increased as the scientists have collected facts showing the importance of the subject.
It is pointed out that of all types of mental deficiency in children, scarcely 60 per cent are due to heredity. Contrary to the popular belief, more than 40 per cent of these cases arise from neglect of certain physical conditions of early childhood. In other words, many a child who appears to suffer from mental deficiency is actually the victim of some physical defect.

Causes Backwardness

It is plain, then, that when this disorder is corrected, there will be a definite improvement in the mental health of the youngster.
Many, many children are backward in their school work only because of overlooked physical disorders.
Frequently these defects are such as may be remedied quickly and easily. Perhaps the prescribing of glasses, proper dental care, or reassurance of the child by a sensible talk about some fear or worry he has, may be quite enough to restore his mental balance. Every parent should appreciate the problem of the child and help him in his relationship to adults. Correction of the environment and mental attitude of the youngster will do much to make him happy and restore him to a normal mental state. In this book such factors as habits, feeding, sex, obedience, and the questions of rewards and punishments, are intelligently discussed. There is much to help the parent and the teacher, too.
Frequently a child may develop a bad habit or a stubborn streak only because of some misunderstanding. This may lead to definite

He used for his Bible text, "For the wages of sin is death; but the gift of God is eternal life through Jesus Christ our Lord."

"The biggest question today is the sin question. Sin is an awful thing. I am afraid of sin," the evangelist said. "The devil pays us to serve him, and 'Be not deceived; God is not mocked; for whatsoever a man soweth, that shall he also reap.' You always reap more than you sow."

"Serve God and He will bless you here. Give your heart to Jesus Christ and you will have a heaven to go to heaven in."

List Sermon Theme Of Trinity Church Service Tomorrow

"Seeking Greatness" the theme which Rev. George D. Keister has taken for his sermon at the morning worship service of the Holy Trinity English Lutheran church tomorrow, Quinquagesima Sunday. Complete services for the church are as follows:

Sunday school, 9:45; (Mark 5:1-17); Charles W. Youtz, superintendent.

The worth of the man cannot be measured in dollars and cents. The chemical content of a human body could be purchased at the drug store for less than a dollar. This however does not represent the value of man. It is the soul and spirit in man that makes him the power and value that he is. The Holy Bible says that God made man out of the dust of the earth, and such is the human body, and then God breathed into man the breath of life and man became a living soul. The fact makes human life the treasure that it is. People must be put before profit. Humanity must go beyond the value of dollars and cents.

Morning worship, 11; sermon. Human ambition strives to reach the highest place of honor that man can give. People will sacrifice and work for greatness, hoping thus to be immortal in the memory of the human race. The failures of great hosts of people to attain greatness makes one consider if the attempt is worth all the effort. Jesus came and did seek greatness but became the greatest of all. He knew the secret of greatness. He would so instruct His disciples.

Announcements

Ash Wednesday, March 2, is the first day of Lent. It is so named because of the custom of putting ashes upon the forehead to remind us from a Saxon word meaning spring or the time when the days lengthen. It is the period of 40 days preceding Easter. The period of 40 days commemorates the 40 days of Israel's wanderings in the wilderness and the 40 days' fast and temptation of Jesus following His baptism.

The Luther league meets with other young people of this district at the pre-Lenten retreat Sunday afternoon 3 o'clock at St. Paul Lutheran church in Alliance. There will be no league meeting in our church.

Lest Ye Forget

"Oh, come and mourn with me a while; Oh, come ye to the Saviour's side. Oh, come, together let us mourn. Jesus, our Lord, is crucified."

Thus will sound the summons to the followers of Jesus Christ during the coming Passion Service. The summons comes to us who are in danger of being drawn along by the preoccupied mass of humanity which year after year rushes by the uplifted cross on which hangs the Redeemer of the World, paying no heed to His sorrows and to the voice of His pleading, indifferent to the salvation He offers. Placitively He asks: "Is it nothing to you, all ye that pass by? Come and see if there be any sorrow like unto my sorrow which is done unto me?" More than ever in the history of the modern world do we need the light that streams from the cross on Calvary. More than ever do we need the hope and the strength and the peace that it dispenses. We need to step aside for a season from the hustle and bustle, the diversions and distractions of our hectic life to be more intimately with Jesus, to let His power refresh us and His love permeate us. "Behold, we go up to Jerusalem." Well you go along? You will go with us as we accompany our soul's Redeemer on His way of sorrow while he works out our eternal redemption?

"Women In Love" by May Christie

CHAPTER XVII

Paul found a secluded nook and a comfortable divan. Ann sank down on it, curling her slim legs under her in little-girl fashion.

Let him start the conversation, she decided. He was too accustomed to women playing up to him. He leaned back beside her on the divan that was plentifully supplied with cushions. He puffed his cigarette, blew a ring of smoke into the air, watched it circle.

The silence was prolonged. It became embarrassing to Ann. "What do you see in the smoke? You look so absolutely intent," she smiled at him.

"Ha! That's your long suit, is it not?"

"What do you mean?"

"That you don't want anybody to know your real mind," she ventured.

He suggested: "Getting to know men's minds is somewhat of a hobby of yours? Not so?"

"What makes you imagine such a thing?"

"Because, firstly, I have eyes in my head. And secondly, psychology has always been rather a hobby of mine."

Puzzled, she caught her underlip in her teeth.

"You don't mean, do you, that you consider I'm some sort of a horrible scalp-hunter?"

He smiled a little. He smiled: "La Belle Dame Sans Merci," he murmured.

"That's a terribly left-handed compliment. Doesn't a verse of it run—'A rag and a bone and a hank of hair, they called her The Woman Who Didn't Care—'"

"But the fool he called her his Lady Fair!" he supplemented.

There was a glow in his eyes, turned full upon her now, whether with accusation or ardor she had no notion.

Always this queer clash between them when they were alone. What had she done? If he disapproved of her, why had he sought her as a partner?

With all her heart she wished she had the intuition to tune in on his happy moods, not the morose ones.

And yet—between them vibrated an emotion that was far removed from cool indifference. Just to be near him stirred her strangely.

"Had you any particular fool, so-called, in mind, Mr. Bradley?"

He blew another ring of smoke, ruminatively. "The night the fool first met her she was masked and wore a domino, but the 'hank of hair'—she has very pretty hair, by the way—was visible."

The Ice Carnival?

Said Ann: "As Alice-in-Wonderland remarked, this grows curiously and curiously!"

"You find it so? Isn't it rather an ordinary experience in your life?"

"What is, Mr. Bradley?"

Her heart thudded.

"You were talking of locks of hair. The gentlemen under discussion didn't go off with a trophy of that sort, did he? He inquired provocatively."

For answer he drew out his watch to which was attached a short platinum chain from which dangled the onyx cat that she had given him. In the dim light of their little retreat, the emerald eyes winked up at them knowingly.

"Do you remember a certain young lady informing me that cats and men had the same qualities of character?"

"That's always been my opinion. Rub then the right way and they purr. The wrong way, and they scratch. As now!" she added.

"No more than that comes back to your mind?"

So he wanted to flirt, did he? Well, meet him on his own ground. To what occasion are you referring, Mr. Bradley?"

"The Skating Carnival."

"That was the first time you met the young woman? You are sure of it?"

He put his hand on hers. "The first time that—shall I say?—registered."

"I won't say—how condescending! I'll only ask if she—er—responded to your mood? Men and cats, you know, enjoy attention only when they want it. Otherwise they're serenely aloof."

"She didn't respond for long. She left early."

"Too bad. As determined as you are, and as fortified with feminine psychology, why did you let her get away from you?"

He narrowed his eyes, half quizzical, half smiling, moving a little near the curled young figure on the divan, and not releasing his handclasp.

"So you don't like laggards-in-love, do you?"

"Not if I happened to be seriously interested in a man, I imagine."

He said: "But flirts don't fall in love. Or do they? Enlighten me."

She withdrew her hand. Her eyes were still smiling, however.

"Why shouldn't a woman flirt if she has a mind to? Do you think it's the sole prerogative of the lords of creation?"

There was a pause. He regarded her steadily. "Often it can do a good deal of harm."

"Such as?" she ventured, very curiously now as to what was really in his mind.

"What about young Gordon Gavin?"

So that was it? "He's nothing in the world to me but an old friend I've known and danced with, since nursery days."

Her tone carried conviction. Still he doubted her sincerity.

"What about that charming role of Juliet you've been playing to-night?"

"Juliet? What do you mean?"

"Haven't you read Shakespeare? The balcony act?"

She flushed hotly, incriminatingly.

"Is there anything wrong at a dance about going out for a moment to have a breath of air?"

"Not if it rested at that. You know, sometimes one has to be cruel in order to be kind, and flirtations can have far-reaching results. It strikes me that the boy's work is suffering, because he's suffering. That's why I called you La Belle Dame Sans Merci."

She said soberly: "That's very unjust. If you only knew it, this evening I've been urging Gordon Gavin towards another girl. I don't accept his invitations, but I do want him to make good in his work, because he has ability, and now that he's lost everything—father, home, money—he needs his job as badly as I need mine."

"Then you don't believe in falling in love Ann?" gently he asked.

"Do you?"

"Sometimes one can't help it even if one fights against it. Love makes fools of us all, big and little."

"Why the world fool? Were you to fall in love, would you consider yourself a weak idiot?"

She had to risk putting these questions to him. She simply had to find out!

He stared straight ahead of him. The music of the next dance started, a rocking tune.

"If love meant peace, if one could safely rest in it," he said slowly, "it would be the most wonderful thing in the world, surely. But there's always living, and living is conflict. Add love to it and there is even greater conflict. Business and love, Ann—it's too much—they simply don't go together!"

In the drugstore across the street from Barclay & Weiss sat four feminine executives at their light nocturne snack.

Light for Renita Parrish, that's to say (she had an appalling hangover after the party) . . . light for Brenda Seitz because she was diet-

QUAKERS LOSE TO STRUTHERS IN CLOSE GAME

Salem's Last-Frame Spurt Falls Short As Struthers Chalks Up 27-26 Victory

Quakers Close In Fast In Final Period After Trailing By More Than Three Points for Three Frames; Improvement Noted In Team's Spirit

Unable to make a spirited last-quarter spurt strong enough for victory, Coach Herb Brown's Salem High school Quakers fell before Struthers highly-rated Big Red quintet, 27 to 26, in a rough and hard-fought battle at Struthers last night.

An overflow crowd jammed Struthers' "band box" gymnasium to watch the two teams close their scheduled seasons. The victory enabled Struthers to wind up its campaign with a record of 20 wins in 22 games, while the defeat was Salem's fifth in 15 contests during the regulation 1937-38 season.

Both teams will enter sectional tournament play at Youngstown East High school gym next week.

After trailing by more than three points during the first three periods, the Quakers closed in fast in the fourth and final quarter, outscoring Struthers 11 points to eight in this frame.

The Red and Black lads were on the short end of a 19 to 15 count at the start of the final period. They played on even terms with the Big Red quint until the last three minutes, when Max Lutsch and Ollie Olexa caged field goals to pull them within one point of tying the score.

The end came shortly after Olexa connected for a field goal which brought the Quakers' point total to 26. Struthers rang up all of its fourth quarter points in the first five minutes of the period.

Team scoring honors by periods were split with Struthers out-tallying the Quakers in the first and second frames and Salem making more points than the Big Red in the third and fourth quarters.

A four-point lead gained in the first quarters, in which they outscored Salem eight points to four, played a big part in keeping Struthers out in front throughout the game.

The Big Red successfully maintained its first quarter lead in the second period by outscoring the Quakers five points to four to hold a 13 to 8 edge at halftime.

The Quakers took the upper hand in ringing up points in the third stanza by counting seven markers to Struthers' six.

Individual scoring honors were fairly well divided with Olexa and Lutsch leading the Quakers with six points apiece and "Ace" Godward pacing Struthers with eight points. Bill Schaeffer and Gilbert Everhart each collected five points for the Quakers, while Jim Dickey and Glenn McLaughlin bagged two markers apiece.

Points from foul shooting contributed largely to the scores of both teams. The Quakers connected on 12 of 18 free throws, while Struthers converted 11 of 21 charity tosses.

Rough action, brought on by close guarding, the Big Red's fast break and compactness of the Struthers floor, resulted in 33 fouls being called and two players—Repasky of Struthers and Dickey of Salem—being ejected from the game.

Repasky was ejected from the contest at the opening of the second quarter after he had paced Struthers' offensive in the first period by scoring six points on three field goals. He committed three fouls during the opening stanza and roughed his way out of the game with another foul at the start of the second period.

Dickey left the game in the third period for committing too many fouls.

Neither team showed exceptional accuracy in shooting from the field.

The Quakers, although granted nearly twice as many shots as Struthers, made only seven field goals to Struthers' eight.

The Red and Black lads, using a seamless and laces ball for the third time in a game, encountered tough luck in much of their shooting. They were placing the ball up to the hoop nicely, but couldn't get the leather to drop through the meshes with any amount of consistency.

There was no disgrace for the Quakers in losing to the Big Red quintet, which is currently rated as one of Ohio's six leading scholastic teams. Rather, their defeat was overshadowed by a splendid display of spirit and one of their scrappiest performances of the season.

Donovan Enthusiastic Over New and Matured Joe Louis

Famous Fight Referee Says Bomber Has Reached Super-Fighter Stage Predicted For Him

NEW YORK, Feb. 25. — One of the most enthusiastic men in town about the new and matured Joe Louis is Referee Arthur Donovan, a man whose opinion rates more than the usual respect.

Donovan has handled every heavyweight fight of importance here in recent years, including Max Baer's knockout of Louis, Tommy Farr's 15-round rough-house with the champion, and Louis's three-round kayo of the impetuous Natie Mann night before last.

He says that Joe now is very close to the super-fighter that excited sports writers and be-dazzled ringiders thought he was two years ago. It's obvious Donovan thinks Joe will reverse the score on Schmeling next June.

The aggressiveness and team spirit which the Quakers have lacked in their past few games was put into play against Struthers for first time since Salem triumphed over Massillon.

Lutsch showed up better than he has for several games, doing creditable work in offensive and defensive rebounding and hooping two neatly executed pivot shots. Schaeffer also showed improvement in defensive play, especially rebounding.

Setting the example for the varsity, the Quaker reserves also dropped a close decision, losing to Struthers reserves, 22 to 21. The Salem subs led at the half, 12 to 9.

LAZZERI'S JOB IS STRATEGIST

Former Yankee Star To Serve On Cubs' New Strategy Board

BY CHARLES DUNKLEY

AVAILON, Santa Catalina Island, Feb. 26.—The curtain of mystery hiding the connection Tony Lazzeri will have the Chicago Cubs this season was lifted today.

Lazzeri, after 12 years with the World Champion New York Yankees, will serve as one of the principal members of Manager Charlie Grimm's newly created board of strategy, organized to bring the 1938 National league championship to Chicago.

The other members will be Charles Leo "Gabby" Hartnett, rated as the outstanding catcher in the major leagues, and the two veteran coaches, John "Red" Evers and Roy Johnson.

Hartnett, in addition to signing as a catcher, also signed a coaching contract this season.

Lazzeri will be available as utility infielder.

Organization of the board was the idea of P. K. Wrigley, owner of the Cubs.

Lazzeri was a most interesting member of the 16 Cubs who plunged into the first hard work-out of the spring training campaign today.

Manager Grimm intends to give his players intensive batting practice the first few days of the training grind.

Joe Jacobs, Schmeling's volatile manager, was at the same time assuring a neighboring group that "Louis still is a sucker for a right. Look how Mann batted him around with a right."

"I'm not so sure about that," said Donovan. "Joe has learned a lot about keeping away from a right, and I can see it. Mann caught him by surprise with a couple, but he'll be watching out for Schmeling."

NEW YORK, Feb. 26.—Baseball's perennial "I wonder" men have installed the New York Yankees as the shortest priced favorites to win the American League pennant race in years.

Here, according to the dopesters from baseball's inner circles, is the way the American league battle for the 1938 pennant in the order of probable finish, shapes up.

YANKIES—Terrific batting power. No crippling injuries have slowed up the Ruppertmen in the past two years as other clubs, notably the Detroit Tigers. Pitching staff to be built around Lefty Gomez, Charley Gehring, Monte Pearson and Johnny Murphy, with five jobs yet

"Smoky, The Clown" To Tell Children Of Fire Dangers

Harry K. Rogers To Enact His Widely-Known Role Tuesday In Behalf of Prevention Campaign

Harry K. Rogers, fire prevention engineer of Chicago, familiarly known to thousands of school children throughout the country as "Smoky, the fire clown," will put on his fire clown act before the school children of Salem next Tuesday.

This is one of the features of the program to be given in connection with the fire prevention survey and educational campaign to be carried out in the city that day by the Fire Prevention Association of Ohio.

The program to be put on by "Smoky" is designed for school children from the first to the sixth grades. It is novel and has proved to be a successful method of teaching fire safety and fire prevention to elementary grade pupils. He amuses and instructs at the same time.

Rogers will appear before school children four times Tuesday, but will give his clown act only to the lower grade pupils.

In the morning he will speak to High school pupils at 8:50, and to Junior High and St. Paul's seventh and eighth grades at 10:55.

His clown act starts at 1:50 p. m. for Rellly, McKinley and Prospect pupils and at 2:45 for Fourth street, Columbia and St. Paul's first to fifth grades.

All four sessions will be held in the High school auditorium. Boy Scouts will assist the school boy patrol and firemen in guarding street crossings as the pupils move from their own to the High school building.

Rogers' thorough knowledge of child psychology, coupled with first-hand information of fire dangers as a former fire chief, have served to perfect an impressive educational novelty. His practical knowledge of his subject enables him to teach the lessons of matches, ashes, gasoline, floor mops, bonfires, rubbish and many others with unusual effect.

Correct methods of reporting fires and what to do in emergencies also are taught.

At noon Tuesday Rogers will speak at a joint meeting of Rotary, Kiwanis and other civic groups at the Memorial building.

Expect Youngstown Steel Advancement

YOUNGSTOWN, Feb. 26—District steel output will advance a point to 30 per cent. capacity next week, preliminary mill schedules indicate.

Some disappointment is evinced by steel executives who expected a greater flow of business following the announcement of second quarter steel prices.

Of 83 open hearth furnaces, 30 will be active and two of three Bessemer plants will continue partial operation. Eight of 25 blast furnaces are active.

Brick Makers Plan Alliance Meeting

ALLIANCE, Feb. 26—Paving brick manufacturers of Ohio and western Pennsylvania will meet here Tuesday to visit the plant of the Alliance Clay Products Co.

Dr. George A. Bole, head of the Ceramics Department at Ohio State University; Dr. H. S. Schofield of Ohio State, a paving brick research engineer, and H. E. Nold of Columbus, secretary of the Ohio Ceramic Industries' association, will speak.

Most Beautiful—and Temperamental—They Say

Some closeup studies of Danielle Darrieux

Hollywood photographers call Danielle Darrieux, screen star recently imported from France, the most beautiful in the film capital. Directors add that she is the most temperamental of younger actresses. Danielle, who is 21 years old, green-eyed and shapely, admits she gets a little bit nervous once in a while and "explodes." But she also says, "I want people to love me."

Lessons In Safety By Animal Kingdom May Prove Benefit

(By Associated Press)

CINCINNATI—By taking a safety lesson from the animal kingdom, Dr. Miller McClintock of Harvard university said mankind may learn how to dodge through traffic and still avoid death or injury.

The director of Harvard's bureau of street traffic research said that birds and animals had built up a "defense mechanism" of safety consciousness which surpassed the development in man.

"I remember in the early days how many dead cats and dogs were seen in the street," McClintock told safety directors and city officials here.

"They were run down by automobiles, but you see very few of them now."

"Can it be that in those generations they have developed an instinct that protects them from the strange devices that come whizzing down the street?"

The traffic expert added that this was true of animals in eastern congested districts, but he observed that the western wild life had not yet learned its lesson.

"Young people are instinctively better drivers," he said, "than we who saw the coming of the first auto and did not become drivers until later years."

McClintock's ideas on traffic safety include the following:

"Reduction of speed limits has little effect in reducing accidents. Traffic lights slow things up and should be cut to a minimum. Motor cycle police shouldn't hide; the average motorist is not a criminal."

Discordant Notes

CHICAGO—Mrs. Martha Zielinski, a 59-year-old widow, testified in defense of a breach of promise suit that Anton Gudelis, her former roomer, snored himself out of chances for romance and marriage. He sounded "like a German Band," she told the court. Municipal Judge Thomas Green threw out Gudelis' suit for $600 heart balm.

Sally, largest of the herd, developed a cough yesterday. A veterinarian prescribed three pints of whisky in a bucket water. Today, keepers said, all the other elephants were coughing.

has ruled that the special investigating committee dies with sine the adjournment of the general assembly, scheduled Monday.

The Property Owners' association of Franklin county petitioned the assembly to continue in order that the investigation would not be interrupted. It said the "surprise" has hardly been scratched in probe of alleged irregularities in state government.

The committee desired also to delve further into a card index system by which Metzbaum said the governor's office kept an account of the activities of all state employees in behalf of the Democratic party; a system which the counsel said guided the governor in discharging employees.
